From "Biographies of Prominent Japanese", published by the Navy,
15 September 1945.

Lt. Gen. Torashiro KAWASE - Vice-Chief of the Army General Staff.

KAWASE was born 1890 in Toyama-ken. In 1912 he graduated from the Military Academy, where he specialized in artillery. He served as commanding officer of a field artillery regiment of the Imperial Bodyguard Division, and in 1937 he was a section chief in the General Staff, concurrently attached to the Navy General Staff. KAWASE was transferred to the Air Corps and in July 1938 was promoted to major general. He then served on the Shanghai front as chief of staff to General Shunroku HATA. Later in 1938 KAWASE was sent to the embassy in Berlin as military attache. He was promoted to lieutenant general in July 1941, at which time he was chief of the General Affairs Section of the Army Air Headquarters. He became chief of the General Affairs Section of the Army Air Inspectorate General in December 1941. He was appointed deputy inspector general of military aviation and vice-chief of Military Aviation Headquarters in August 1944. On 7 April 1945 KAWASE was appointed vice-chief of the Army General Staff.

KAWABE Torashiro, Gen (Lt Gen)(?)

Consultant of POPOV on Japanese rearmament with direct access to him on this strategic research matters. Serves as POPOV cutout to Lt Gen IWAKURO Takeo & Lt Gen SAKURAI Tokutaro, who serve subordinate to him in research, although both are occasionally consulted by POPOV direct. Up to summer of 1950, considerable influence on the ARISUE Kikan, but now busted up & personal feeling toward ARISUE is bitter. POPOV's chief contact; no pretensions as an intelligence officer but chief anti-communist with considerable research ability. Fine character & moderate views trustworthy; increasingly good rep among rightist leaders; rumored will be new C/S, or some one picked by him-will be.

The organization of the constabulary by ARISUE Seizo and KAWABE Torashiro, advisers to the General Headquarters' Second Staff Section (G-2), may well become a reality. American made revolvers have already been given to all policemen by the Americans. The fact is that the constabulary will be organized under American guidance. It has also become clear that plans are being made to bring forward purges UGAKI Issai and to allow great leeway to the activities of the Japan underground govt. It is evident that all of this is being done with the mutual consent of America. (Ref. ZJL-256, Report M, 24 Jan 50, CE File III - 32.1 - copied entire report).

The elder brother of KAWABE Torashiro, KAWABE Shozo, has been even more closely linked to the IWAKURO political group toying with the idea of rearmament. The elder KAWABE is full general, and was in the process of retirement at the time of the Surrender. KAWABE Shozo is believed to be advanced by the IWAKURO group to head a tentative rearmament program merely as a figurehead. This does not necessarily indicate that KAWABE Torashiro is also connected with the IWAKURO group, but it is well known that KAWABE Torashiro does get on quite well with IWAKURO, and that he has accepted in the past information from the IWAKURO Kikan for transmittal to American authorities. There is no definite indication that the younger KAWABE is directly connected with the efforts of his brother and the IWAKURO group. The prestige of KAWABE Torashiro has suffered a slight decline since the eminence of peace treaty ratification, largely because of the same stigma which is attached to HATTORI Takushiro as a military leader who has worked quite faithfully for American G-2 GHQ, particularly for Major General Willoughby. This is merely a general rumor in army and in intelligence circles; nevertheless it is generally accepted that KAWABE has done considerable military planning and intelligence work for G-2 GHQ in the past few years. In this work, he relied quite extensively from time to time upon the services of IWAKURO Hideo, SAKURAI Takutaro, OIKAWA Genshichi, ARISUE Seiso, and others, leading former staff figures. KAWABE has been reputed to have his own intelligence gathering organization, but there is no indication that he has actively entered the rearmament fields. Actually, much of KAWABE Torashiro's information and efforts are believed to go to support of SHIMOMURA Sadamu. This also is merely a general accepted rumor nothing more. Far as is known, KAWABE Torashiro and KAWABE Shozo both have refrained personally from any direct attack upon HATTORI Takushiro or any malicious gossip concerning the latter's activities. (ZJL-748, E [ ] [ ] 15 Nov. 52, [ ] [ ] Dossier.)

IWAKURO Hideo and KAWABE Torashiro have no personal contact at present and apparently have had none for a long time. (ZJL-784, [ ] [ ] 18 Dec. 51, [ ] [ ] Dossier.)

Subject is among the close friends of KOTANI Etsuo. KOTANI worked with subject in JIGS, and latter regarded him as a likeable junior officer. KOTANI owes his employment by the KAWABE Organization to KAWABE's sponsorship. [ ] [ ] ZJJ-70, 4 Apr 52, [ ] [ ] dossier).

KAWABE Torashiro (3109/6708/5706/0934/6745)

The Japanese Cabinet has recently set up what is commonly known as the "ROKUNIN IINKAI" (Six-Man Committee). The actual purpose of this committee is to give informal advice on the question of de-purge of remaining field grade Army officers and future order of de-purging general officers. It is known unofficially as the Japanese Government's Military De-Purge Committee. All of its members are highly trusted by present Cabinet authorities, but the closest to government circles at highest levels is of course TATSUMI Kiichi. Among the members of the committee is KAWABE Torashiro, age about 60. The most interesting point concerning the committee is that some of the members including KAWABE would like to be future Defense Minister or top-level "Special Advisor" on Military Affairs to the Government. (ZJL-771 [ ] 18 Dec. 51, [ ] Dossier.)

(p. 5) Subject, despite his Army General Staff background and despite his past exemplification (in Navy eyes) of unmitigated and unilateral Armyism, is now viewed with increasing favor for his recent attempts to soften the Army jingoists and to reach a working basis and common policy agreement with Navy and Foreign Office-led factions. (p.8) One of the leaders of the x compromise attempt made 10 Oct to 25 Oct 50 to repair the shattered "federation". Under an overall plan, subject would have served on a Board of Advisors. (P.9) ~~XX~~ In the current position of the Groups (4 Nov 50) some cooperation continues in internal operations by ARISUE with the anti-Communist penetration efforts of IMAAZE Takeso and his men. Much of this cooperation is under overall direction of KAWABE Torashira, however, who formerly took a far more active part in "fronting" for IMAAZE and ARISUE. . . KAWABE and TANAKA Ryukichi have continued general liaison work and fronting for IMAAZE, kept up their GHQ connections, and during the last week in October were on the hi heat level at violent odds with the Navy-Foreign Office figures... for the Opposition's inflexibility on the unification compromise issue. First week in Nov, however, saw them listening with increasing interest to an overture from the New National Peace and Independence Preparations Committee(qv) for overall cooperation and sponsorship. Further subject is reputedly not entirely satisfied with ARISUE's recent bid for increasing power, and may throw his weight in favor of the Opposition groups. (Evaluation for this last statement: B-3)(p.12) (Ref. ZJU-483, 13 Nov 50; [ ] CE File III - 33a)

KAWABE Torashiro of the KATO KIKAN has in his possession a detailed map of the undeveloped areas of Manchuria and Siberia which is a map of shifting tactics (TENSHIN SAKUSEN YOZU) used by the Japanese Kwantung Army. This map is a Top-Secret document of the Japanese army pertaining to strategy directed against the Soviets and is of great importance in future military strategy directed against the Soviets. There is only one copy of this map in the world. (Ref. ZJL-220, Report B, 10 Nov 49, CE File III - 33,1 - carded all).

One of the leaders in the plan of the ICHIDA Shigeru Cabinet for strengthening the police force. (Ref. ZJL-220, 10 Nov 49, Report Z, CE File III-32.1).

10 49 KAWABE Torashiro's (of the Japan underground government's UGAKI Issai faction) clandestine organization within the police constabulary special higher investigation net, has currently been named the SAKURADA CLUB. It was formed by bringing together former higher special police officials. This organization wields the greatest power within the metropolitan police. (Ref. ZJL-220, Report D, 10 Nov 49, CE File III - 32.1 - carded all).

The Japan underground govt is planning the creation of a fascist force composed of the constabulary and the fire brigades. It will be led by KAWABE Torashiro and ARISUE Seiso. It is clear that plans for its creation call for organization along the lines of a brigade (ryodan bantai). The rearming of Western Germany has a great influence upon the organizing of this force. The Japanese underground government is carrying out this organization with great determination. (Ref. ZJL-236, Report H, 8 Dec 49, CE File III - 32.1).

Liaison is being maintained between the Soviet Trade Mission in Japan (CHUNICHI SOREN BOEKI SHISETSU DAN) in Mitsubishi Building 21 and former Lt. General KAWABE Torashiro. (Ref. ZJL-236, Report K, 8 Dec 49, CE File III - 29).

Source, Operational Data, and Comments:

Apparently this information comes through HATTORI Takushiro, though he is not specifically reported as the informant.

This report is significant as a correction to information previously given by [ ] paragraph 7, ZJL-771, which indicated that KAWABE Torashiro was collaborating with the Japanese government. The information in ZJL-771 concerning KAWABE's hopes of becoming future Defense Minister, may, nevertheless, be considered valid.

MAKI Sakura

TAKEMATSU is the code name for a secret intelligence operation presently being established by POWV. The operation is designed to provide domestic intelligence from within Japan (MAKISU) as well as positive intelligence from without (TAKI). TAKEMATSU is to be named and run by Japanese personnel with POWV personnel involved only at the high policy level. The entire operation is to be financed by POWV. Source: MAKISU from ☐ to ☐ from ☐ dtd 20 May '49.

The following information was received from a highly reliable source on 10 January 1949:

On 28 December 1948 a meeting took place at the GIB Special Activities House in which the following were in attendance:

.....
General KANAME
General ARIMURA

The meeting was initiated by ☐ who announced that a 1940, black, four door sedan, Engine No. 1875289538, would be made available to KANAME. He also stated that Japanese typewriters had been prepared for the use of TAKEMATSU personnel.

KANAME stated that the operational plans for MAKISU are being drafted. Boundaries of jurisdictional responsibility are presently being set up. Offices will be established within the following locations and with the listed persons responsible for their operations:

1. KAWABE Torashiro (河邊虎四郎), former general and present head of the KAWABE Kikan, is not taking part in the clearing of purged regular officers of the former Japanese army, as rumored. He would not do so even if he were asked, because he fears that the work might injure his reputation and lessen his prestige in the future.
2. Screening committee members in charge of de-purging regular officers were: KATSUKI (fmu) (香月), former Lieutenant General, SHIMOMURA Sadamu (下村定), former Lieutenant General, YIMURA Jo (新村 譲), former Lieutenant General, TATSUMI Eiichi (辰巳 英一), former Lieutenant General, MIYAZAKI (fmu) (宮崎), former Major General, and KAMAMOTO Shigeichiro (山本 茂一郎), former Major General.

1. KAWABE Torashiro (河辺 虎四郎), chief of the KAWABE Organization (Kikaku), was a lieutenant general in the Japanese army. He was graduated from the Japanese Military Academy (1912) and from the War College. His military career included service as a member of the Operations Section of JIOS (1931), as military attache in Moscow, as commander of an artillery regiment of the Imperial Guards Division (1936), as chief of the Intelligence Section of the Kwantung Army Headquarters (1938), and as military attache in Berlin (1938 to February 1940). During the war he was commander of an air division, then deputy chief of the Army Air Force Headquarters (1943 to April 1945), and deputy chief of JIOS (May to August 1945).
2. After the war, KAWABE received financial support from ARISUE Seiso. When he was chosen by G-2 to head the intelligence organization which bears his name (KAWABE Organization, or Kikaku), he therefore persuaded TATSUMI Eiichi, YOSHIMAKI Wataro (吉崎 辰太郎), and American officers who opposed ARISUE to include him in the organization. At the request of G-2, in 1949 KAWABE conducted interrogations of high-ranking Japanese army officers who were repatriated from the USSR. He continues to be nominal head of the KAWABE Organization.
3. KAWABE's principal friends, some of whom are working under him for G-2, include:
  - a. SHIMOMURA Sadamu (下村 定), former general, with whom he served for many years in JIOS. SHIMOMURA, a 1908 graduate of the Military Academy, was graduated and then was an instructor of the War College and later its superintendent. He also served as chief of the JIOS Historical Section, commander successively of Japanese Army Forces in central China, of the Seibu (Western) Army Area, and the North China Army Area, and, from August to November 1945, as Minister of War.

1. G-2 Headquarters, Far East Command informed KAWABE Torashiro (3109/6708/5706/0934/6745) early in December 1952 that appropriations had not been made for the next fiscal year to cover all the expenses of his intelligence organization. For this reason a radical reduction in the organization's personnel and in its scope of activity would be necessary. KAWABE was offended at the sudden and one-sided decision, and he and his colleagues decided to dissolve the group rather than accept G-2's terms.
2. Having anticipated eventual dissolution of his group, KAWABE had placed 15 of his men in the National Safety Force (Kwan Tai) (NSF) prior to receiving word of G-2's decision. As of mid-December he was attempting to place the remainder in the proposed new government intelligence bureau.
